WELCOME TO GLOBAL SUMMIT XIII

Dear Friends,

Welcome back to the Jefferson Educational Society's Global Summit – the second Summit in less than seven months! When I last wrote the welcoming letter to the Global Summit in 2019, none of us could have predicted the many ways the world would be indelibly changed by the Covid-19 pandemic.

Beginning March 12, 2020, a noticeable change at the JES was the pivot to digital programming. To date, the think tank has offered more than 200 virtual programs to the community, including 14 events over 18 days in May for the JES's first-ever digital Global Summit.

Despite the changes over the past year and a half, one thing that hasn't changed is the need to explore key issues facing the world, our country, and communities nationwide. Year after year, the Global Summit seeks to quench that intellectual and cultural thirst.

From what began as an ambitious endeavor in 2009 to bring the brightest minds to discuss the most pressing issues on stage in Erie, Pennsylvania, the Jefferson continues to reach new heights over the past 12 Summits. While the first Global Summit drew an audience of 500, our last in-person saw nearly 7,000 in-person attendees and our virtual Global Summit has garnered almost 40,000 views – and counting as those programs remain available to stream on-demand on the JES's website and social media platforms. We expect to exceed that number this November.

It all began with a headlining event featuring E.J. Dionne at the first Global Summit. Then, Paul Kennedy presented at the second installment. Over the years, the JES has added more and more notable names to the Global Summit roster, becoming the largest and most esteemed speaker series in the region (see full list on pages 10&11).

This year, it adds an American president.

George W. Bush, the 43rd President of the United States, will headline Global Summit XIII, marking yet another milestone for the speaker series hosted in Erie, Pennsylvania that is gaining notoriety throughout the nation. The pandemic prevented President Bush from attending in person, one week after the 2020 election. This time, we have the perspective of President Biden's first year in office, as well his reflections on the tumultuous eight years he served in the White House.

Our conversation with President Bush will be part of a week-long series focused on the American presidency. Flanking the President, you'll find a panel of former White House chiefs of staff, including Andrew Card and Mack McLarty, and a discussion focused on First Ladies featuring Barbara Perry, Stacy Cordery, and Anita McBride. Our look at America's First Ladies marks another milestone for the JES, a new partnership with American University and the First Ladies Association for Research and Education.

The ever-in-demand, Pulitzer Prize-winning presidential historian Doris Kearns Goodwin will return to the Global Summit for a third time. The Summit will also feature Civil Rights Leaders and President of the A. Phillip Randolph Institute Clayola Brown in conversation with DeWitt Walton, District 10 Council Representative for Allegheny County; President of the National Constitutional Center, Jeffrey Rosen; Brookings Fellow and head of the think tank's Race, Prosperity, and Inclusion initiative Camille Busette; and University of Chicago political scientist (and Erie native) Robert Pape, this year's recipient of the Thomas B. Hagen Dignitas Award.

I'm happy to share with you that this will make the 11th Global Summit appearance for me. It is a great honor to share these events with a hometown that has given so much to me and my family.

Your JES team is working to continue to ensure that not just now but for years to come Erie is known as an epicenter of educational exploration, that our community remains a center of informed discussion, spirited dialogue, and a platform to learn more about our world, our nation, and our community.

Of course, we couldn't do this without you and your continued support over the years. You, Jeffersonians, arrive excited to each event and help us to widen our audiences by encouraging your friends to attend, as we continue our pursuit of knowledge together. We sincerely appreciate you and the part you play in elevating constructive conversation – something we need now more than ever.

Best regards,

Steve Scully
Global Summit XIII Chairman

The Impact of Systemic Racism In Communities of Color

Labor and civil rights leader Clayola Brown, president of A. Phillip Randolph Institute in Washington, D.C., will discuss the impact of systemic racism in communities of color in a program moderated by union leader DeWitt Walton of Pittsburgh.

At age 15 in 1963, Clayola Beatrice Oliver helped her mother, Ann Belle Jenkins Shands, in a successful campaign to bring the Textile Workers Union of America to the Manhattan Shirt Factory in her birthplace and hometown, Charleston, South Carolina. It was just the beginning of Brown's remarkable life as a labor and civil rights activist.

Brown later helped organize the 17-year struggle to unionize the textile giant J.P. Stevens that culminated in 1980 with 4,000 workers winning a contract through the newly formed Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union (ACTWU), according to her biography in the Historymakers, the nation's largest African American video oral history collection. Brown served as the ACTWU's education director, civil rights director, and for 13 years as manager of the ACTWU's Laundry Division. In 1991, she was elected international vice president of the ACTWU.

In 1994, President Bill Clinton appointed Brown to the National Commission on Employment Policy and a year later she helped merge the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) with ACTWU to form the Union of Needle Trades, Industrial and Textile Employees. That same year, Brown was elected international vice president of the AFL-CIO. In 2004, Brown became the first woman to serve as national president of the A. Phillip Randolph Institute and she continues in that role today.

Brown, a graduate of Florida A&M University, has received numerous honors, including the NAACP Leadership and Keeper of the Flame Awards, the CBTU Woman of Valor Award, the SCLC Drum Major for Justice Award, and many others.

Born in Mississippi and reared in Gary, Indiana by activist parents, DeWitt Walton is a 25-year employee of the United Steelworkers union and is currently assigned to the Civil & Human Rights department. He has served as an organizer, strategic campaigner, and assistant to the union's international president. An alumnus of Idaho State University, he also served in VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), the domestic equivalent to the Peace Corps.

Walton, District 10 labor representative for Allegheny County, lives in the Hill District in Pittsburgh.

An Evening with Jeffrey Rosen, President of the National Constitution Center

Jeffrey Rosen is an American academic, author, and commentator on legal affairs. He is a Professor of Law at George Washington University in Washington D.C., a contributing editor at The Atlantic, and has served as the president and chief executive of the National Constitution Center, a nonpartisan nonprofit whose mission is to educate the public about the U.S. Constitution located in Philadelphia since 2013.

Rosen writes frequently about the U.S. Supreme Court, having interviewed several chief justices. The late Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg credited Rosen's early support for her Supreme Court candidacy.

Rosen is the author of six books, most recently Conversations with RBG: Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg on Life, Liberty, and Law. His other books are William Howard Taft: The American Presidents Series; Louis D. Brandeis: American Prophet; The Supreme Court: The Personalities and Rivalries that Defined America; The Most Democratic Branch: How the Courts Serve America; The Naked Crowd: Reclaiming Security and Freedom in an Anxious Age; and The Unwanted Gaze: The Destruction of Privacy in America. Rosen is also the co-editor of Constitution 3.0: Freedom and Technological Change.

He hosts a weekly "We the People" podcast, a weekly show of constitutional debate in which listeners can "hear the best arguments on all sides of the constitutional issues at the center of American life." Rosen is a highly regarded journalist whose writing has appeared in the New York Times Magazine, National Public Radio, the New Republic, and The New Yorker. The Chicago Tribune named him one of the 10 best magazine journalists in America and the Los Angeles Times called him "the nation's most widely read and influential legal commentator."

Rosen is a graduate of Harvard College, Oxford University, where he was a Marshall Scholar, and Yale Law School.

The Power of Policy Reform to Address Racial Justice in Erie

How can communities use policy reform to address systemic issues that have driven racial inequities over decades? Dr. Camille Busette, a leading expert on policy reform at the local and national levels, will address those issues and more in her Global Summit talk. With a focus on Erie, Pennsylvania, Busette will examine data and trends in Erie, as well as comparable metros, with a look at what's been done and is being done. She is currently working as a project consultant with Erie-based advocacy groups on a new policy strategy as part of the Better Together Council's Erie Racial Justice Policy initiative.

As a Senior Fellow at the Brookings Institution, Busette heads the think tank's Race, Prosperity, and Inclusion initiative, which launched How We Rise, a project that focuses on policy solutions to upend structural racism and create a more equitable society for all. She has affiliations with Brookings Governance Studies, Economic Studies, and Metropolitan Policy Program.

After receiving her academic training at the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Chicago, Dr. Busette embarked on a career at the World Bank, where she confronted issues of extreme poverty, lack of access to health, education, sanitation, and the labor market.

Busette is no stranger to Erie or the Jefferson Global Summit. She addressed "Thinking Differently about Race and Belonging" at Global Summit XI in 2019, and joined her Brookings' colleague Dr. Rashawn Ray at Global Summit XII in May 2021 for a program titled "Addressing Policy Reform and Racial Equity."

The History and Role of First Ladies

Three distinguished panelists – Barbara Perry, Stacy Cordery, and Anita McBride – will discuss several former First Ladies in a Global Summit program in partnership with American University, the First Ladies Association for Research, and Education, and the White House Historical Association.

Perry is the Gerald L. Baliles professor and director of Presidential Studies at the University of Virginia's Miller Center, where she co-directs the Presidential Oral History Program. She has written or edited 15 books on presidents, First Ladies, the Kennedy family, the Supreme Court, civil rights, and civil liberties.

Perry has conducted more than 100 interviews for the George H.W. Bush, Bill Clinton, George W. Bush, and Barack Obama Presidential Oral History Projects, and she directs the Edward Kennedy Oral History Project. She served as a U.S. Supreme Court fellow and has worked for both Republican and Democratic members of the Senate.

Historian Stacy A. Cordery is the author of four books, including the New York Times best-selling biography Alice: Alice Roosevelt Longworth, from White House Princess to Washington Power Broker (Viking, 2007). A four-time teaching-award winner, she is a professor in the History Department at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa, where she teaches courses on First Ladies, the Gilded Age, and 20th century America.

She is a Distinguished Visiting Professor at the Theodore Roosevelt Center and a member of the Theodore Roosevelt Association Advisory Board. In addition to her biography of Longworth, she is the author of a biography of Girl Scout founder Juliette Gordon Low (Viking, 2012) and two books about Theodore Roosevelt. Her latest project is a biography of entrepreneur Elizabeth Arden that will be published by Viking.

Anita McBride served more than 30 years as a White House adviser, chief of staff, diplomacy adviser, and women's empowerment advocate. She is currently Executive-in-Residence at the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies in the School of Public Affairs at American University in Washington, D.C., where she directs programming on the legacies of America's first ladies and their historical influence on politics, policy, and global diplomacy. She also serves as an adviser to the university's president and the Office of Development and Alumni Relations and on the Advisory Board of the University's Sine Institute of Policy and Politics.

McBride served as an assistant to President George W. Bush, as well as Chief of Staff to First Lady Laura Bush.

Panel discussion will be moderated by Steve Scully, longtime Global Summit chairman and Senior Vice President of Communications for the Bipartisan Policy Center in Washington, D.C.

An Evening with President George W. Bush

According to his official biography, George W. Bush served as 43rd President of the United States of America from 2001 to 2009. As Commander in Chief, President Bush worked to expand freedom, opportunity, and security at home and abroad. At home, he championed the No Child Left Behind Act to raise standards in schools and cut taxes for every federal income taxpayer, restoring economic growth and launching an unprecedented 52 straight months of job creation. The Bush Administration also negotiated new free trade agreements, worked with Congress to pass landmark healthcare reforms, and instituted robust environmental protections. Following the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, President Bush responded with a comprehensive strategy to protect the American people. Under his leadership, the United States built global coalitions to remove violent regimes in Afghanistan and Iraq that threatened America and provided unprecedented support for young democracies and dissidents around the world. President Bush also launched global HIV/AIDS and malaria initiatives that have saved millions of lives, particularly in sub-Saharan Africa.

President Bush grew up in Midland, Texas, the eldest son of Barbara and George H.W. Bush – later the 41st President of the United States. He received a bachelor's degree in history from Yale University and a master's degree in business administration from Harvard Business School. President Bush also served as a pilot in the Texas Air National Guard. Following business school, he returned to Midland and met Laura Welch. They were married in 1977. After working in the energy business in West Texas for several years, President Bush moved to Dallas and joined a group of partners that purchased the Texas Rangers baseball franchise. In 1995, he was sworn in as the 46th Governor of Texas.

After his presidency, Mr. and Mrs. Bush founded the George W. Bush Presidential Center in Dallas, Texas. The Bush Center is home to the George W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum and the George W. Bush Institute, a nonpartisan public policy and leadership development center that engages communities across the United States and around the world by developing leaders, advancing policy, and taking action to solve today's most pressing challenges.

President Bush is the author of four bestselling books: Decision Points (2010), 41: A Portrait of My Father (2014), Portraits of Courage: A Commander in Chief's Tribute to America's Warriors (2017), and Out of Many, One: Portraits of America's Immigrants (2021), a collection of oil paintings and stories by President Bush honoring America's military heroes.

President and Mrs. Bush are the parents of twin daughters: Barbara, married to Craig Coyne; and Jenna, married to Henry Hager. The Bushes also are the grandparents of Margaret Laura "Mila" Poppy Louise and Henry Harold "Hal" Hager. The Bush family also includes two cats, Bob and Bernadette, as well as Freddy the dog.

GOV. TOM RIDGE, inaugural Secretary of Homeland Security, was instrumental in organizing President Bush's event for this Global Summit. Ridge, who served two terms as Governor of Pennsylvania, will serve as event host.

SEN. PAT TOOMEY, R-Pa., will share remarks on politics and government before the keynote address by President George W. Bush and will also participate in this program through a Q&A session with Steve Scully.

This program, moderated by Global Summit Chairman STEVE SCULLY, will include an exclusive conversation with President Bush who will discuss the challenges facing the nation in the 21st century and the powers of freedom.

A Conversation with Former White House Chiefs of Staff

Former White House Chiefs of Staff Andrew Card and Mack McLarty will offer their insights on the men and presidencies of George W. Bush and Bill Clinton, respectively. Card served as Chief of staff for President George W. Bush from 2001 to 2006, and McLarty served as Chief of Staff for President Bill Clinton in 1993 and 1994.

Many Americans recognize Card as the top White House official who notified President Bush about the second plane hitting the World Trade Center during the 9/11 attack on America. Card served in various other senior government roles under three U.S. presidents, including Ronald Reagan, George H.W. Bush, and George W. Bush as well as served as the acting Dean of the Bush School of Government and Public Service and as the fifth President of Franklin Pierce University from 2015 to 2016. He is a graduate of the University of South Carolina, Harvard Kennedy School, and the United States Merchant Marine Academy.

Thomas F. "Mack" McLarty III is chairman of McLarty Associates. He co-founded McLarty Associates in 1998 following a number of positions in business leadership and public service, including various roles advising three American presidents: Bill Clinton, George H.W. Bush, and Jimmy Carter. McLarty is also chairman of the McLarty Companies, a fourth-generation family transportation business. He is a summa cum laude graduate of the University of Arkansas.

Panel discussion will be moderated by Steve Scully, longtime Global Summit chairman and Senior Vice President of Communications for the Bipartisan Policy Center in Washington, D.C.

The New Deal to Great Society: FDR and LBJ

Presidential historian Doris Kearns Goodwin, a Pulitzer Prize-winning author and internationally acclaimed speaker, is making her third appearance at the JES Global Summit.

Goodwin, whose several books reached the top of the New York Times Bestseller list, is also known for her love of baseball, especially the Brooklyn Dodgers of her youth and the Boston Red Sox of her adulthood. She was the first female journalist to enter the Boston Red Sox locker room in 1979 and also appeared in Ken Burns' 1994 documentary, Baseball.

Goodwin earned a Ph.D. in government from Harvard University and went on to Washington, D.C. as a White House Fellow during the Lyndon B. Johnson administration and eventually became a member of his staff, focusing on domestic anti-poverty efforts. After leaving the administration, Goodwin taught government at Harvard for 10 years and assisted Johnson in drafting his memoirs. Her first book, Lyndon Johnson and the American Dream, became a New York Times bestseller and provided a launching pad for her literary career.

In 2018, she released her popular book, Leadership in Turbulent Times, which explores the early development, growth, and exercise of leadership by drawing from the presidents she has studied closely – Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Johnson. Goodwin has said the book was meant to inspire young people to see these men not just for who they were as presidents, but also as ordinary people in the beginning of their careers who eventually became leaders through a variety of different paths.

Goodwin is also an advocate for women in leadership roles, noting "Somehow men are more willing to just somehow say early on, 'I'm a leader.' Women will take responsibility for things and that is a mark of leadership, and it has to be recognized that they should say that's what makes me a leader. I think it's going to happen, but I hope it's not 200 years from now before some historian is writing about four women."

Holding the Line: Political Violence in America and the Implications for Democracy

University of Chicago political scientist Robert Pape is the 2021 Thomas B. Hagen Dignitas Award recipient. Dr. Pape, an Erie native, is a specialist in international security affairs.

He has specialized in air power, suicide terrorism, and economic sanctions. A founder and director of the Chicago Project on Security and Terrorism, Pape is considered one of the world's foremost experts on strategic air power and terrorism studies.

Pape helped to found CPOST in 2004 to support his research into the causes, conduct, and consequences of suicide terrorism campaigns and to establish, maintain, and update the first-of-its-kind Suicide Attack Database, which remains the most comprehensive database to this date.

Pape's research efforts have led him to study the effectiveness of economic sanctions, humanitarian intervention policy, U.S.-China Relations, and American Grand Strategy. With more than 30 years of experience in studying air power as a tool for coercion, he has advanced his opinions on U.S. action in Kuwait, Bosnia and Kosovo, Iran, Iraq, Afghanistan, Libya, and Syria. He has also advised major policymakers in Washington and served on the presidential campaigns of Republican Ron Paul and Democrat Barack Obama.

Pape has also authored a number of books about terrorism, including Bombing to Win: Air Power and Coercion in War (1996); Dying to Win: The Strategic Logic of Suicide Terrorism (2005); and Cutting the Fuse: The Explosion of Global Suicide Terrorism and How to Stop It (2010).

Before his work at the University of Chicago, Pape taught international relations at Dartmouth College for five years and air power strategy for the USAF's School of Advanced Airpower Studies for three years. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and his B.A. and M.A. from the University of Pittsburgh.

GLOBAL SUMMIT THROUGH THE DECADE

From a humble start as a two-day conference in 2009, the Jefferson's annual Global Summit has become an annual staple on Erie's civic calendar. The Summit has become the largest and most esteemed speaker series in the region, featuring nearly 100 of the most respected scholars, writers, and leaders in the nation since its inception.

The idea is simple: Invite some of the best thinkers to Erie to tell us about their cutting-edge studies or insightful work on important issues, and point the focus on Erie and its challenges. The Global Summit has grown in number of speakers and attendees each year and remains the signature series of events for Jefferson members and the entire Erie regional community.

Progressive Howard Dean talks politics with conservative Elise Jordan at Global Summit X.

Michael Eric Dyson (author, orator, professor), captivated a Global Summit X crowd at Northwest PA Collegiate Academy. Dyson's talk prompted several standing ovations, such as this one led by Paul Gambill and Mayor Schember (center).

Michael Eric Dyson

"Nationalism is the belief that no matter what one's country does—whether racist, homophobic, sexist, xenophobic, or the like—it must be supported and accepted entirely. Patriotism is a bigger, more uplifting virtue."

Camille Busette of the Brookings Institution talks with Erie attorney Nicci Page.

Harvard astrophysicist Avi Loeb meets Penn State Behrend students in 2019

Rev. Jeffrey Brown, "architect of the Boston Miracle," speaks at Global Summit VIII on reducing youth and gang violence.
